TANZANIA

Maasai Tribe

The Maasai are a semi-nomadic ethnic group known for their rich cultural traditions, distinctive dress, and strong connection to cattle, which play a central role in their way of life. Living primarily in southern Kenya and northern Tanzania, they continue to preserve many traditional customs while welcoming visitors interested in their rich cultural heritage.

Mount Kilimanjaro

Africa's highest peak, Mount Kilimanjaro (19,341 ft), offers one of the world's most accessible high-altitude climbs, requiring no technical mountaineering experience. Trekkers journey through five distinct climate zones, from lush rainforest to alpine desert and icy glaciers, with breathtaking views unfolding at every stage. Reaching Uhuru Peak at sunrise is an unforgettable achievement and one of Africa's greatest adventure experiences.
